Three Lights Fiasco - Changes

We have two BIG changes this year!...OK, three if you count the name change...

First, the start and finish will be at Saunder's Point. Second, and the bigger change, is that you can round each mark in any order or direction! These two changes gives us the opportunity to take best advantage of the weather (wind and current) that we see at the start!

Third, I came up with the shameless rip-off of the "Three Bridge Fiasco" race that the Singlehanded Sailing Society puts on each year in the San Francisco Bay. Since we have not had any finishers, the name seemed appropriate.

I have complete confidence that this year someone will finish!

Cheers, Paul

Could be fun - Bring your friends - We look forward to sailing with everyone

1050 (GPS time): Warning Signal (Yellow Flag)

1055: Prep Signal (Blue Flag)

1100 Start (Red Flag)

Start Line: Saunders Point Light (2+1 flasher between South and West Rivers). Between the light and either Honalee or Sprite (a 15' Lyman).

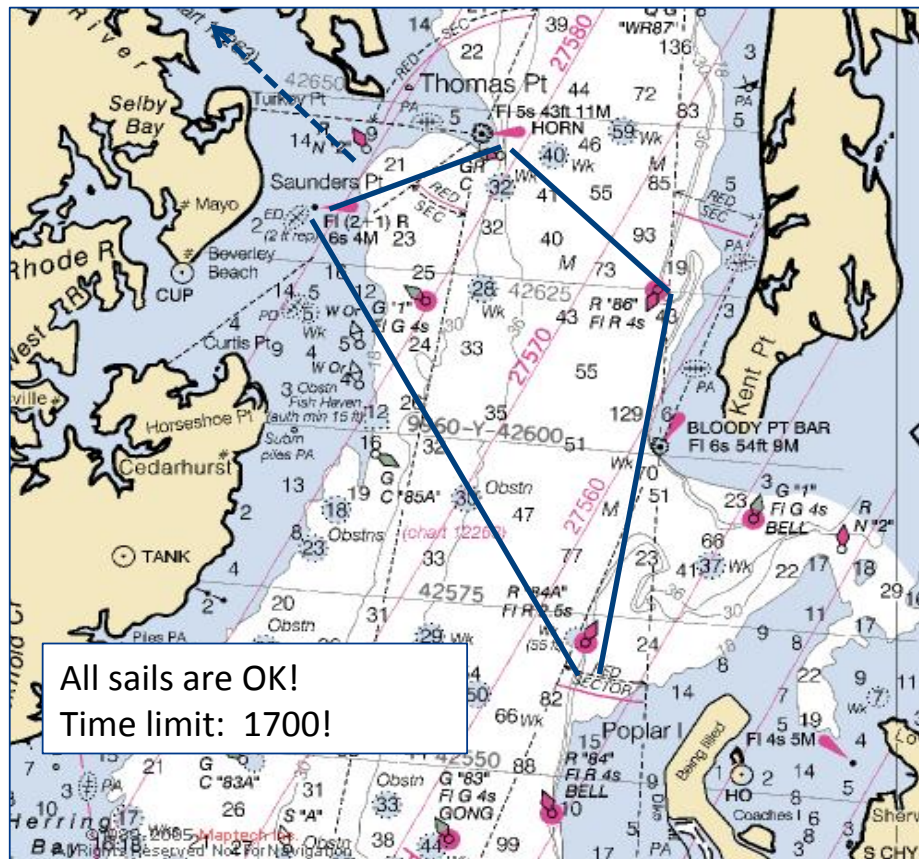

- Red Channel Marker 84A (leave it to the north)
- Red Channel Marker 86 (leave it to the west)
- Green/Red Channel Marker "SR" (leave it to the south)

Finish: when Saunders's Point Light is within 50 yards and bears due South.

Official Distance = 15 NM (e-mail Paul your finish time!)

Raft up in Harness Creek afterwards! Listen to VHF Ch. 68 for changes!

Important Note!
You may round
the marks in any order or direction!

JUST SO YOU KNOW...

We're still messing about! Well, what we really mean is: we're still working on the redesign of the WATERLOG. So, each edition might be a little different until we settle on its new look. While not dramatically, this edition, is just a bit different. More changes underway.

Part of the new look includes our new burgee and logo images.

Continue to watch them move around as we mess around.
