

WATERLOG

The Annual CTSA Icebreaker is almost here..Finally!

The usual routine will prevail. Chris and Virginia White will be our hosts with Virginia making the main dish, the club providing the drinks, dinnerware, etc. Please RSVP to Chris and Virginia ASAP and when doing so, please let them know what accompanying dish you will bring (i.e., hors d'oeuvres, salad, dessert, etc.).

Last year's Icemaker brought great interest in Dawn and Paul Miller's Lowell skiff. Therefore, this year, Chris is going to haul his small craft out onto the lawn for the same gazing and discussion. The White's invite everyone to bring your small crafts as well and be prepared to tell your story. A boat ramp is nearby, so if the weather cooperates, your small craft could be splashed in the water. A "true" icebreaking! Well, OK, if there is no ice, we can throw a few ice cubes in the water and watch them melt.

Please RSVP to the Whites @ 410.923.4424

*We look forward to seeing everyone! Directions on Page 11

Bore, Malmö Sweden, October 2012

WORLD'S OLDEST ICEBREAKER

The world's oldest icebreaker, the s/s Bore, is docked in Malmö, Sweden. The Bore was built by the Kockums shipyards in 1894, and was used to keep Malmö harbor and the sound between Malmö and Copenhagen, Denmark clear of ice. The ship was almost mothballed in 1983, but was purchased by coal merchant Knuth Borg, who restored it to its original condition.

A NEW LOOK IS ON THE WAY

Over the course of the next CTSA sailing season don't be alarmed if you see some "messaging about in boats." Well, what we really mean is: we will be redesigning the WATERLOG. So, each edition might be a little different until we settle on its new look.

Part of the new look includes our new burgee and logo images. Watch them move around as we mess around.
